
Free parent education workshop for parents of young children - 6 years

Enhancing cooperation and connecting emotionally

Play is a child's first and fundamental language and an important part of healthy development. This workshop will look at what play is, why it is important in development and parent-child relationships, and how to use it to support connection and cooperation. This workshop is designed for parents of children under the age of six who are experiencing emotional and/or behavioral difficulties at home, school and/or in the community, including but not limited to: aggression, anger, anxiety, attachment issues, defiance, sadness/withdrawal, shyness, etc. Learn more about how to engage your child in a playful manner to help them cooperate and thrive emotionally and behaviorally.

Presented by Norette Rene-Gougeon, Child & Family Therapist and Petrea Hansen-Adamidis, Expressive Arts Therapist

Registration is required and child care is available.
