
Free parent education workshop

for parents of children 3 to 6 years

Feeling good about kindergarten

Is your child old enough to start kindergarten? Do you wonder if they're ready? A child's first school experiences can influence the way they relate to others for the rest of their life. It's important to make sure that when your child begins school they are developmentally ready to learn and participate in classroom activities.

This workshop will offer parents support and direction in fostering and encouraging their child's readiness for kindergarten, and help them succeed in school.

Presented by Sandra Armoogam, Sarah Davis, and Farrah Hemani, Registered Early Childhood Educators

Registration is required and child care is available.
